Address all orders to The Edgewater Farm, Sterling, Illinois.

We send out full blooming size bulbs and pay postage or express on all retail orders. Six at dozen rate. 50 at 100 rate.

We guarantee all bulbs to be true to name but we give no warranty, express or implied as to crop and will not be responsible for results other than to replace stock not true to name or refund purchase price for same.

Upon request we will quote wholesale prices on any variety that we have in sufficient quantity.

Introduction

"The handsome, golden-throated Gladiolus blooms to-day;

See its pretty purple stamens, note its petals red and gay."

The words are still true but no longer the whole truth. Well known and widely cultivated in the days of our grandmothers, the Gladiolus was always a favorite flower, but one needs hours even to see the varied array of blooms resulting from its modern development.

The dainty Myrtle and the giant LeMarechal Foch, the compact Schwaben and the spreading Mrs. Frank Pendleton, the plain-petaled Flora and the highly ruffled Mrs. H. E. Bothin seem scarce related, so great is the variation of form.

From the pure white of White Giant to the almost black of Empress of India the color range gives a wide choice. The Primulinus Hybrids, alone, have among their smaller, more delicate blooms tints from the palest primrose to rose and deep red, though the yellow of their African ancestors seems to be a strong influence. Outside of the solid colors, in tiny dots and light pencilings, in stripes and bands and irregular splotches, in the faintest and the most vivid of markings, there is bewildering variety.

The season has been so extended that no heavy single planting is required to furnish a succession of bloom starting in June with Pink Beauty, Halley, Wilbrinck, Primulinus, etc., and ending in October with Sentinel, War, Pink Perfection, etc., as at Edgewater during the past season. Also, the season of any variety may be lengthened by varying the depth and time of planting, while bulbs of Wilbrinck, Rubini, Niagara and many others, will usually send up two or more spikes flowering successively.

In buying bulbs size is no criterion, as many choice sorts do not produce large bulbs. The essentials are that the bulbs be well developed, firm, healthy, and of blooming age, which large ones are often past.

We list mainly proven varieties, which it is unlikely that new ones will ever displace, though believing new ones well worth trying. If expense must be carefully considered a wealth of bloom and much satisfaction can be had from the mixtures. But if able to indulge the tastes any buyer is sure to feel well repaid in the possession of American Beauty, Byron L. Smith, Catharina, Elora, Glendale, Louise, Mrs. John R. Walsh, Rev. Ewbank, etc.

ROY E. SHELLY.

HOW TO GROW GLADIOLI FOR BLOOM AND FOR BULBS.

Gladioli will grow and produce fine bloom in any good garden soil, if given plenty of sun. A sandy soil is best, a clay soil poorest. If it must be fertilized, let this be done in the fall. Fresh manure will scald the bulbs if it comes in contact with them.

Set the bulbs 4 or 5 inches deep and 4 inches apart. Deep planting keeps the spike erect at blooming time, and the plants stand drouth better. By planting every 10 days after danger of frost is over, until July, you will have full bloom until frost.

Keep weeds out. Keep a dust mulch around the plants in dry weather. Do not water Gladioli except in extreme dry weather and at blooming time for the reason that if you begin watering you must keep it up until the season is over. Cut the spike when the first bud is unrolled. Leave 3 or 4 leaves to help mature the bulb. Cut off half an inch of spike when renewing the water each morning—nearly all the buds will open and you will have a beautiful bouquet for ten days.

The bulbs should be taken up in October before the ground freezes and dried thoroughly. Cut the foliage close to the buld. When dry, store them in a cellar away from frost and not too dry.

If these instructions are followed, the bulbs will give you the best results for several years. The old roots may be broken off any time before planting.

If you will advise as to character of soil, grounds, etc., we will send specific instructions to fit your conditions.
